MISS DAVIS GIVES: SUFF TEA TO GIRLS

Four Hundred of Them and Three Young Men at the Party.

MANY SIGN TO PARADE

Four hundred girls and three young men attended the 5 o'clock tea which Commissioner of Correction Katharine B. Davis gave in the Municipal Building yesterday to get recruits for the suffrage parade of October 23. The three young men, who are clerks in Dr. Davis's department, whon they found themselves in a crush of girls under the eye of their chief, who was talking votes for women from an improvised platfrom, tried to edge their way out. But the Commissioner called to them: "Come back, gentlemen. You are entirely welcome! They came back and meekly signed pledges to march in the parade.

More than twenty-five men in the Municipal Building, Dr. Davis said, had already promised to walk in the suf-frage ranks. But the main object yes-terday was to get the girls. Borough President Marks is heartily in accord with Miss Davis in this, and he told her she could have the Coroner's court room for her tea. We Marks are not well but for her tea. Mr. Marks meant well, but he forgot that a subway hearing was set for 3 o'clock in the room. When the caterers arrived at 4, with their trays caterers arrived at 4, with their trays of teacups and spoons and boxes of cake they found the room full of men and a witness testifying about the subway cavein. For a minute it looked as if there wouldn't be any tea party, but Janitor Kugelman, who is an ardent suffragist and wears a yellow aster in honor of Commissioner Davis hastlie.

she lives in. You won't have to decide all the intricate matters that come to Comptroller Prendergast and other officials, but you will have the right to decide what sort of men shall be in charge of those matters. And now I ask you to sign the pledge to march in our parade. Come and sign and buy the suffrage hat that has been designed for the marchers. It is a nice hat and seashore."

Lured by this economical considera tion, scores of the girls pressed for-ward to put their names down for a hat Nearly all of those present signed to march in the parade.

Janitor Kugelman, who is an ardent suffragist and wears a yellow aster in honor of Commissioner Davis, hastily cleared out one of the unused rooms of the Municipal library, put up some of the Municipal library, put up some of the mew clit flags, and when the girl employees of the various departments, for whom the tea was given, began to arrive everything was ready.

Tea and cake were served by the members of the committee which has been formed to arouse parade sentiment in the Municipal Building and which consists of Commissioner Davis, chairman; Miss Charlotte V. Eaton of the Board of Estimate force, Miss Ida Fingerhut, the City Chamberlain's secretary; Miss Anna Von Hohoff, from the Municipal library; Miss Mary E. Brennan, who is in Conmtroller Prendergast's office, and Miss Emma Finn, Dr. Davis's secretary.

While the girls are cake and drank tea Dr. Davis made a brief speech in which she said:

"The vote merely means that a woman will have the means to express her opinion ir. matters affecting the city she lives in. You won't have to decide all the intricate matters that come to Comptroller Prendergast and other officials, but you will have the right to decide what sort of men shall be in charge of those matters. ALEXANDER FAYORS SON HARRY IN WILL

Frederick, Tennis Player, Can Get Nothing Without Brother's Consent.

The will of James W. Alexander, forner president of the Equitable Life Assurance Society, who died September 21 last at Tuxedo Park, was filed for probate here to-day. While it was believed that Mr. Alexander's estate would amount to more than $1,000,000, it was said yesterday on authority that it would be less than $500,000.

Mr. Alexander left his entire estate to his widow, Mrs. Elizabeth B. Alexander of 615 Fifth avenue, and to his children, Henry M. Alexander, named as executor and trustee; Elizabeth A. Alexander and Frederick B. Alexander of 1188 Madison avenue, famous as a tennis player.

Mrs. Alexander receives one-fourth of the estate in trust for life, and on her death her daughter and son Henry each get one-third outright. One third, together with a quarter of the residue, is left for life to the son Frederick, and on his death the principal goes to his issue, but concerning the amount of income to be paid over to the son Frederick the will said: "I hereby vest my said executor and trustee with the absolute power of discretion in determining what part of the income, if any, shall be paid to my son Frederick B. Alexander and what part, if any, shall be paid to his Frederick B. Alexander of 1188 Madison what part, if any, shall be paid to his lawful issue."

The trustee, Henry M. Alexander, also has power to pay over part of the prin-cipal to the son Frederick or his issue, which is expressed in the will as fol-

ows:
"It is my intention to vest my executor and trustee with the absolute power of determining during the life time of my son Frederick B. Alexander what part, if any, of the principal so held in trust for my son Frederick B. Alexander shall be paid to him and what part, if any, shall be paid to his lawful

The other half of the residue goes in equal shares outright to the daughter and son Henry M. Alexander.
